78 The violin is a beautiful and versatile instrument that has been around for centuries. It is capable of producing a wide range of sounds, from soft and delicate to loud and powerful. Learning to play the violin can be a rewarding experience, but it does require dedication and practice. If you're a beginner, don't worry! With the right guidance and a lot of patience, you'll be playing your favorite songs in no time. This article will provide you with a step-by-step guide on how to play violin is to choose the right instrument. There are many different types of violins available on the market, ranging from inexpensive student models to high-quality professional instruments. When choosing a violin, it's important to consider your budget, your skill level, and your personal preferences. If you're a beginner, it's recommended that you start with a student violin. These violins are typically made of lower-quality materials and are less expensive than professional instruments. However, they are still a great option for beginners because they are easy to play and are a good sound. You should also consider the size of the violin. Violins come in different sizes, so it's important to choose an instrument that is the right size for you. If the violin is too big or too small, it will be difficult to play. Buying Accessories In addition to a violin, you will also need to buy some accessories. These include a bow, a case, rosin, and a shoulder rest. A bow is an essential part of the violin. It is used to create sound by drawing it across the strings. When choosing a bow, look for an instrument that is well-made and has a good balance. You should also consider the weight of the bow. A heavier bow will be more difficult to control, but it will also produce a louder sound. A case is important for protecting your violin when you're not playing it. Look for a case that is sturdy and has enough room to store your violin and accessories. Rosin is a substance that is applied to the bow to help it grip the strings. It is important to use rosin regularly to keep your bow in good condition. A shoulder rest that is comfortable and fits your body properly.
Tuning Your Violin Before you start playing your violin, it's important to tune a violin, including using a tuner, tuning by ear, or using a piano. If you're a beginner, it's recommended that you use a tuner. A tuner is a device that helps you tune your violin by showing you the pitch of each string. There are many different types of tuners, and app tuners, and can adjust the tension of the strings using the pegs until the pitch is correctly. Holding the Violin The first step in playing the violin is to learn how to hold it correctly. Holding the violin correctly is important for several reasons. It helps you to produce a good sound, it makes it easier to play, and it helps to prevent injuries. To hold the violin correctly, stand up straight with your feet shoulder-width apart. Place the violin, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the strings. Your right hand should be holding the bow, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the violin, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the violin on your left shoulder, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the violin, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the violin on your left shoulder, with your fingers curved and ready to draw for the violin on your left shoulder. the bow across the strings. Holding the Bow The next step in playing the violin is to learn how to hold the bow correctly. Holding the bow correctly is important for several reasons. It helps you to produce a good sound, it makes it easier to control the bow, and it helps to prevent injuries. To hold the bow correctly, start by placing the frog of the bow (the end with the screw) in the palm of your right hand. Your fingers should be curved, with your index finger on top of the bow, it's important to keep your hand relaxed. Don't grip the bow too tightly, as this will make it difficult to control. Instead, hold the bow lightly and let your fingers move freely. Producing Sound The next step in playing the violin is to learn how to produce a good sound on the violin, start by placing the bow on the string at a right angle. Then, draw the bow across the string slowly and steadily. Keep your arm relaxed and let the bow move smoothly across the string at a right amount of pressure. If you use too much pressure, the sound will be harsh and scratchy. If you use too little pressure, the sound will be weak and thin. Experiment with different amounts of pressure to find the sound that you like best. Playing Notes The next step in playing the violin is to learn how to play notes on the violin involves pressing down on the strings with your left hand and drawing the bow across the strings with your right hand. To play a note on the violin, start by placing your finger on the string at the correct position of your finger on the string will determine the pitch of the note that you play. When playing notes on the violin, it's important to keep your fingers curved and your hand relaxed. Don't press down on the strings too hard, as this will make the sound harsh and scratchy. Instead, press down on the strings gently and let your fingers move freely. Learning Songs Starting with Simple Songs Once you have mastered the basic techniques of playing the violin, it's time to start learning some songs. When starting out, it's important to choose songs that are simple and easy to play. This will help you to build your confidence and improve your skills. Some simple songs that are suitable for beginners include "Twinkle, Little Star," "Mary Had a Little Lamb," and "Hot Cross Buns." These songs are easy to learn and are a great way to get started.
Reading Sheet Music In order to play songs on the violin, you will need to learn how to read sheet music is a written form of music that uses symbols and notes to represent the sounds that you should play. Learning to read sheet music can be challenging at first, but with practice, it will become easier. There are many different resources available to help you learn how to read sheet music, including books, online tutorials, and music lessons. When reading sheet music, it's important to pay attention to the notes tell you which strings to place your fingers. The rhythms tell you how long to hold each note. The dynamics tell you how loud or soft to play each note. Practicing Regularly Practicing Regularly Practicing, it's important to set aside a specific time each day to practice. This will help you to develop a routine and make practicing a part of your daily life.
When practicing, it's also important to focus on the things that you need to improve. Don't just play the same songs over and over again. Instead, focus on practicing the techniques that you find difficult. This will help you to improve your skills more quickly. This list will give you a balanced mix of pieces from different genres and styles. Some of them are great for if sounding correct! Unless you have a private teacher, you will need to be able to critique yourself by listening. All of these suggested songs can be played in first position, have minimal string crossings, simple rhythms and are relatively short in length. Prepare to be quickly rewarded with a completely playable song! Starting with some basic nursery rhymes to get a feel for the instrument, we have "Hot Cross Buns", "Mary Had a Little Lamb", and "Twinkle". Note that any open strings (no fingers) are marked with a zero. I've also included a brief snapshot of the violin neck and the relevant finger positions as a simple guide for you to work through the following tunes with. right-click,
 "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Probably the easiest song you can learn on the violin that involves only one string and two fingers! You can use your string of choice for this one and simply play 2-1-0, 2-1-0. The below example is shown on the A string. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Slightly longer, this one and simply play 2-1-0, 2-1-0. The below example is shown on the A string.
song also only requires one string and two fingers! With more frequent finger changes, this is a great next step. Pick a string but the melody can be completed with the same finger pattern on any string. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Have you ever noticed the tune for singing the alphabet is the perfect song to start rounding out your playing with. I recommend playing this song starting with the open A string, then the open E string (A-A-E-E), as the upper strings suit the sweet nature of this piece. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Let's move onto some more popular tunes that are sure to go down a treat when you're looking to show off your new talent with friends and family. Coldplay's hit song which had everyone falling for its stellar violin riff is easier to play than you think! Using only four notes you can impress your friends and delight your ears with this dazzling riff. The repeated tones you'll need for this one are D, E, A, and F#. You should know the rhythm already but if you're struggling with the timing I recommend listening to the song before you play. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Contemporary and minimalist composer of our time, Ludovico Einaudi has created an effortlessly stunning melody which you've probably become familiar with through epic films or advertisements. Simply repeat 2-2-3-2 three times, and round off with 2-1-2-3 on any string and you have a masterpiece! right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view With plenty of repeated tones, and undeniably familiar, this song is a really fun beginner piece. We're also going to be introducing a new finger right next to the first, rather than extending higher. To execute the intro simply play on the D string: 1-1-1, L2-L2-L2, 1-1-1, 0-0-0. The verse and chorus only use first position as well making it very doable although slightly longer if you wanted to play the whole song. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Checking out some classical favorites for the traditionalists among us, we have "Largo," "Ode to Joy" and Canon in D! Simple, classic, and only using two fingers. This timeless Dvorak melody can bring tears to the eyes of enchanted listeners. With a few string crossings thrown in, this piece before playing will definitely help! right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view A classical treat. I would be remiss not to include, Beethoven's "Ode to Joy". Although a longer piece, it is fairly repetitive as Line 1 and 2 are the same except for the A string. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Pachelbel's "Canon" is a wonderfully rewarding piece to learn as it has such an elegant soaring melody which you could repeat a hundred times over and not get bored of. Here we will be beginning on the E string (marked in yellow) and moving onto the A string (marked in blue). right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view To wrap up with a fun and spirited little melody, we have "Jingle Bells!"
Typically performed in December, this high-spirited tune can be practised during any time of the year. The trickiest part for this one will be the string to the D string one note after another. I recommend practising moving the third finger back and forth between the strings without the bow so you can focus solely on the left hand's transition before playing the whole piece with the bow. right-click, "Open in New Tab" for a bigger view Hopefully this list has given you a taste for some of the violin's magnificent potential and a repertoire of pieces to have under your belt for when a performance arises. As you advance in your playing you can even return to these short songs as warmups or for enjoyment. February 16, 2023 February 16, 2

Meadowlark Violin Online Studio Membership I spent the past 20 years teaching the violin and most of that was using a Suzuki Violin curriculum which begins with Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star & rhythmic variations. In my opinion, this is a difficult piece to begin with since it has 4 sections in A-B-B-A form and uses 6 pitches. I always had to break it down into smaller songs like the Flower Song and Monkey Song in order to teach it to young beginners. This got me thinking about how I might teach beginners if I were to use a different curriculum so I created the list below and a violin & GarfunkelIf you want to learn a classical piece, then you should definitely learn "Ode to Joy" on the violin. Ode to Joy is one of the easiest songs to pick up out of this list. This is a great violin song is a masterpiece created by one of the most well-known composers and violinists of all time, Antonio Vivaldi. It was written in 1723 when Vivaldi was in Venice, Italy. This song on the violin is not only fun but it can also be educational as you will learn how to play light quick bow strokes. You can try out learning this song on your violin in my easy violin tutorial: Spring, mvmt. 1: Allegro by A. VivaldiIf you love to play classical music, I also highly recommend for you to check out the Suzuki books. The books feature a lot of beautiful classical pieces for beginners. created? Or is it the beautiful film music in the movies?One of the first compositions written for the Harry Potter music was "Hedwig's Theme." This magical song is one of my favorite film music pieces. I created an easy version of the Harry Potter song so that anyone can learn it! You can check out the full tutorial on the song "Hedwig's Theme."

slower, calmer notes, and later on features a quick and "happy" part. As the song also sounds very pretty on the violin, I recommend you to give it a try!When I was a kid, I learned to play this!He's a Pirate is the theme song of the well-known movies "Pirates of the Caribbean". The melody is very catchy with short and accented notes. This tune is popular with violin players, and it can be heard in many cover versions on YouTube. Are you up for learning this song and creating a cover version yourself? You can get started with this easy violin tutorial: "My Heart Will Go On" is often one of the first songs I teach when giving private violin lessons. It is a song everyone knows, and it is very easy to play on the violin. In this song, you can practice making beautiful, soft, and straight bow strokes. My Heart Will Go On - James HornerThe "Game of Thrones" main theme features only a few notes and is very easy to learn by heart! However, there is one crux: there is one very long note that needs to be sustained. This song is great for practicing a long, sustained bow stroke. I have more tips for how to make that sound good in my easy violin tutorial about this song: Game of Thrones - Main ThemeOne of my students once asked me if I could arrange an easy violin version for "Rains of Castamere" because he loved this song so much. When I heard this song myself, I also loved it immediately and agreed! This Game of Thrones song is a little more difficult to play than the previous one I mentioned - so be sure to study that one first! Look carefully at the bowings I show in the tutorial and try to replicate them - if you use the correct bowings, it is a lot easier to make this song sound good. This theme music is a little bit less well-known than the others, but I wanted to include it anyway as this series really has beautiful violin music in the theme. Sherlock Holmes Theme (BBC)Oh, how I loved watching "Casa del Papel". To be honest, I couldn't stop watching, so one week of my life. was basically devoted to watching this series. Luckily for you, I quit watching the series now, so I can write these useful blog posts instead. One of the songs that is featured in the series is an Italian folk song called "Bella Ciao". You have to be careful playing this song in Italy though, as people have mixed feelings about this song. (I tried it and regretted it soon after!) However, I think the melody of this song is really pretty - and many others who watched the series will love hearing this for them on the violin. Try it out yourself with this easy violin lesson! The Godfather - Main Theme"Do, a deer, a female deer..."If there is one musical I absolutely loved as a child, it was "The Sound of Music". I probably watched it over 100 times and I am not even exaggerating. It is also one of the reasons that I learned how to speak English, as I had no idea what the lyrics were about and wanted to learn them anyway. One of the songs that is featured in The Sound of Music is "Do-Re-Mi". It is sung as the children are learning how to sing. Isn't that the perfect song to practice when you are starting to learn to play for others as many people know this tune from their childhood. However, be warned: you could get into some trouble trying to pronounce the song you just played!
